New York City, March 27, 2007. Michele Gerber Klein hosted a cocktail reception in Mr. Morgan's Library to celebrate the contributors to BOMB Magazine and announce the publication's 26th anniversary gala set for April 17th at The Park in Chelsea.

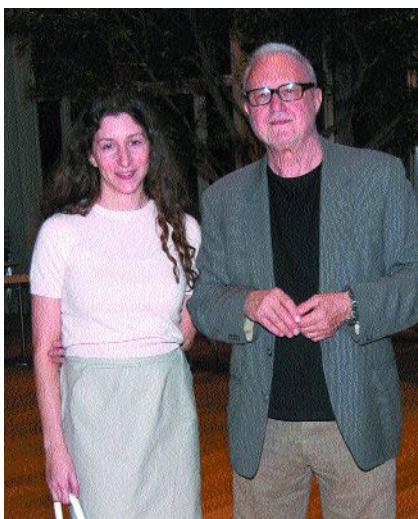

BOMB has been a strong and vital presence, a unique window into the creative minds of our times. Started because its early editors saw a disparity between the way artists talked about their work among themselves and the way in which it was described by critics, BOMB aims to reveal, intimately and intellectually, an artist's creative process through in-depth conversations between peers.
