Winter Wonderland by Saoirse
On Saturday morning, 2002, Gerard McKeon, Joyce Brooks, Caoimhe McKeon and myself went out for a stroll in Central Park. Along the way we saw children sledding down a hill, they were going as fast as speeding bullets. We saw giant snowballs that were half my size. We went crunch-crunch in the fresh snow. Finally we made it to the ice rink, where we all tried our best.

My family and I went to the front of the park, there were big snow balls and kids were sledding in the snow. We were supposed to go ice skating but we got distracted. So, we finally got to go ice skating, then we went home. Happy 7th Birthday, Caoimhe. Love Daddy.
