

Comedy Central's "Night of Too Many Stars: An Overbooked Concert for Autism"

Photos by: David Prutting and Ben Gabbe/Patrick McMullen

Harry, Laura and Ali Slatkin

Camille and Kelsey Grammer

Jane and Jimmy Buffet

Matthew Broderick

Richard Belzer and Bebe

Blue Man Group

Tina Fey

Rosie O'Donnell

Candle King Harry Slatkin, President of Slatkin & Co., Home Design & Limited Brands was recognized for his generous support of Autism Education programs at Comedy Central's "Night of Too Many Stars: An Overbooked Concert for Autism Education" at the Beacon Theater. The home fragrance connoisseur began his evening by hosting his closest family and friends at his home to celebrate the evening before hitting the red carpet.

As the premiere sponsor, Slatkin provided stars, including the evening's host Jon Stewart, Adam Sandler, Tina Fey, Sarah Silverman and other with a relaxing retreat to use as their Green Room.

Slatkin & Co., donated $100,000 to this important cause, and the on-air charity special raised over $3 million. Performers who raised money to help ease the severe shortage of effective schools and education programs for autistic children included Fred Armisen, Will Arnett, Matthew Broderick, Tom Brokaw, Steve Carell, Stephen Colbert, Senator Christopher

Dodd, Susie Essman, Will Ferrell, Tina Fey, Will Forte, Kelsey Grammer, Goan Hill, Kevin James, Maroon 5, Megan Mullally, Conan O'Brien, Rosie O'Donnell, Amy Poeler, Adam Sandler, Susan Sarandon, Sarah Silverman, Ben Stiller, and Triumph the Insult Comic Dog. Slatkin himself participated in two live skits with Stewart, Fey, and Levine.

All funds raised support educational facilities that have recently opened or are about to open their doors, along with those already well-established model schools that are now developing innovative programs to provide vocational and life skills for adults with autism. Proceeds will also support outreach programs that provide training and consultation to families of very young children in their homes. Additionally, a portion of the proceeds will benefit Autism Speaks, the nation's leading autism advocacy group.

For more information on autism please visit: www.autism.org

Jon Stewart